Weather
Variable cloudiness in the valley today with a slight chance of thunderstorms and sprinkles. Otherwise fair through Friday with local early morning low clouds. A little cooler. Lows in the mid 50s to low 60s. Highs both days in the 80s. Westerly winds 10 to 20 mph.

Ruth and Harold Gabriel show Rotarians one of the expensive polyurethane "Easy Boots" they put on their four draft horses when they discovered conventional horseshoes were too hard on the team's feet marching 25 miles a day on paved roads.

Tale of the wagon train

LIVERMORE — "Trails and Tribulations" is going to be the tricky title of Ruth Gabriel's book about her trip across country in a wagon train.

Ruth and her husband, Harold, who have won state championships in driving horse teams, were asked to drive California's official entry in the Bicentennial wagon train. The plan was to gather wagons from each state at historic Valley Forge, Pa. for the Fourth of July.

There were plenty of "trails" — 3,200 miles of them, in fact, not to mention a 900-mile barge trip from Missouri to Pennsylvania.

And the "tribulations" came thick and fast — rotten weather and a dying horse and a poorly built wagon and horseshoes that had to be changed every week and a half.

The Gabriels are back in town after their six - month trip in a prarie schooner built for the occasion. ("The dumbo who put these wagons together used the wrong wire on the wheels," Harold reported.)

Now, both of them are looking for jobs and living with his family in the meantime. They are thousands of dollars in debt because of the enormous expenses of their trip.

They have a slide show to present to local organizations and they're also hoping to earn money by giving wagon rides, using the faithful draft horses who took them across country. Anyone interested in either experience may contact them at 447-7942 to make arrangements.

There's also a fund in their behalf, the Gabriel Fund, c/o Valley Bank, P.O. Box 446, Livermore.

What really devastated their bank account, the Gabriels told a Rotary Club gathering yesterday, was the trip back to California.

Leaving their wagon in Pennsylvania (it will eventually be given to the State of California by the corporate sponsors of the wagon train), they turned west in the truck and horse trailer they had taken turns driving to the east.

Many repairs later, they pulled into the Valley in debt, discouraged and exhausted. They were also disillusioned, they related, at the indifference of Atkin, Kynett Co., the Philadelphia public relations firm who had dreamed up the wagon train spectacle.

"The wagon master we started out with in California was great," they agreed. "But the people in charge at the end of the trip didn't seem to care about either the horses or the people."

Hardships aside, it was an unforgettable experience to represent California in a pilgrimage that took them across Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas and Missouri, and from there by way of barges to one of the nation's most historic spots.

Details of the trip, photos and maps will be included in "Trails and Tribulations," a paperback being published by Suburban Press, Hayward, available for $2 in local bookstores next month.

Will CC zoning hamper central redevelopment?

PLEASANTON — The CC (Central Commercial) zoning outlined in the city's zoning ordinance as proper only for the downtown area has been approved for two neighborhood shopping centers over the past few months in apparent violation of the zoning ordinance's intentions.

The CC zoning allows many more uses than the CN (neighborhood commercial) uses which are supposed to be used in residential areas, a feature which makes CC zoning more attractive for neighborhood shopping center developers, if they can get it. But will it hurt the redevelopment of downtown where city - wide kinds of shopping are supposed to go? And will the two recent approvals establish a trend for future neighborhood centers?

The Times put the question to two councilmembers yesterday. Councilman Ken Mercer observed that one of the two rezonings — for Oak Tree Center on Hopyard Road and Valley Avenue — occurred last winter before he was elected to the city council. The other, on Ted Myers' property at Santa Rita Road near Valley Avenue, was really an expansion of an existing Planned Unit Development.

"Myers is building three buildings in addition to the center," said Mercer. "One will have neighborhood uses and another will be a Sears catalogue store. I guess you could call the Sears store a downtown type of development. But the use was an extension of Myers' existing development.

"On new shopping centers, I would advocate CN (neighborhood commercial) zoning. But if there is an existing center and a developer wants to expand a neighborhood use, I would have no problem with it, if it is tied in properly with the whole development.

"If they are starting a new development, it should be done with CN zoning. We should do all we can to revitalize the downtown," said Mercer.

Councilman William Herlihy said, "I don't think that what I see happening will hurt the downtown. I think the downtown is doing exceptionally well on private redevelopment. The major municipal functions are downtown and will remain there. Ou major financial institutions are in the downtown. There may be some impact on downtown, but I think it will be minor."

Herlihy felt that commercial uses ought to be looked at on an individual basis. He cited the example of a mortuary which won approval for good design plans on a site at Hopyard Road in the Valley Trails subdivision. But the neighbors objected to that particular use, so the council nixed it.

"I don't know if putting CC zoning in neighborhood centers is a trend," said Herlihy. "We have three more shopping centers to go. It might be insignificant, but perhaps the question might be something to review."

Some of the uses permitted, sometimes with a required conditional use permit, in the CC zone which are not permitted in the lower key CN zone, include ambulance service, auto supply stores and rental agencies, auction establishments, blueprint and phtotostat shops, cabarets, laboratories, motels and hotels, plumbing showrooms, shoe stores, and ticket agencies.

Back home

A smiling Paul Loretz proudly displays two cushions that were stolen from in front of his Spring Street home Monday morning. The bench is frequently used by local residents for a resting place on their travels. Loretz said Bob Jensen of Pleasanton returned the cushions after they were spotted behind Cole's Market, only a short distance from where they were taken. Loretz expresses thanks to all those in the community who participated in the search.

Parking controls work on Vineyard Avenue

PLEASANTON — The red "no parking" zones painted on the curbs on Vineyard Avenue recently seem to be doing the job and the city should postpone installation of signs which would restrict parking hours on the street, Elizabeth Hall told the city council Monday.

Residents along Vineyard Avenue complained to the city council a month ago that they were unable to see well backing out of their driveways and unable to assure guests of a parking place in front of their homes because of overflow parking from apartments across the street.

The council's solution was to have selected curb areas painted to ban parking, especially a few feet on either side of driveways. The council also ordered parking banned by signs announcing no parking between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. weekdays.

The council didn't want to force residents to move their cars at 7 a.m., but felt that was the only way to insure that the parking situation will be all right.

Hall told the council Monday that painting the red lines already has done the job. There's no need for the signs, said Hall.

City Traffic Engineer Ken Lamb said the parking restriction signs are on order, but he is willing to wait another month to observe conditions and see if the signs are needed.

On another item, the council learned that bids for replacement of a flashing school crossing light on First Street came in $2,500 over estimates. The council decided not to rebid the item because the school crossing is protected by a crossing guard. The sign in question was on the east side of First Street.

The council also heard Councilman Frank Brandes remind members that the middle of August is the deadline for putting issues on the ballot in November. "Items have been mentioned and we have had some study on it," said Brandes.

In the past Brandes has brought up the idea of putting financing of the West Las Positas overpass on the ballot as well as an override to hire additional fire and police personnel.

The council also approved an Alameda County Solid Waste Disposal study by a 4-0 vote (Mayor Robert Philcox was absent). Councilman Ken Mercer assured other council members that the final draft of the plan has a strong stand against any possible dumps for the valley's gravel pits.

Her charity would cost the county too much

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Jeanne Trudeau is willing to put her conscience and principles on the line, but she can't find any takers.

The Springtown housewife, a clerk at the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center, wants the county to reduce her salary to its original $603 per month, but the board of supervisors had to turn her down — again.

She tried to refuse last year's pay raise as well, but that request also was rejected.

In a letter to her boss, Sheriff Tom Houchins, she says she feels "this nation is facing a major economic crisis unless the present wage-price spiral can be abated." And even though she has "grave doubts" that the crisis can be avoided, she must "remain true to my convictions ... holding the line on wage levels must start with me."

"It's not that our family doesn't want or need money," she says. "In fact, I tend to be such a poor money manager that overdue bills are not a novelty around our house. It's just that to be truly selfish, in my opinion, we must occasionally put the welfare of our city, county, state, or nation in first place."

Her husband works, she adds, and "if I provided the sole support for a family I don't know whether I would take this stand or not."

She wants to save the county $1,650 this year, but the board of supervisors said the cost of printing a special salary ordinance for her and reprogramming the payroll computer would outweigh any savings.

She gave last year's after-taxes raise and step increase to charity, and says she'll consider the same move this year, but "this would not decrease the amount of money expended by the county."

"In accepting an increase in salary I am also accepting an increase in taxes of some nature; and I am causing other people's taxes to be increased," she adds.

She says she's not alone in her drive to curb the wage-price spiral.

"With only one exception, every person I have spoken to at Santa Rita ... union members and non-union members, custodial and civilian alike ... has stated that though they may not agree with the county's proposed increases, they would be agreeable to accepting NO RAISES FOR ANYONE this year."

Sheriff's deputies recently received a 7 per cent pay boost, while county service employes settled for about 5 per cent after a 49-day strike.

To date, no similar requests have been received.

Save with recycling

With the costs of garbage collection rising, valley residents using two-can service might try recycling glass, paper, cans and shopping bags as a way to cut down on the number of garbage cans they need.

There are two recycling centers located in the valley: Livermoe Community Recycling Center, Pacific Avenue near the Livermore Public Library; and Dublin Recycling Center, Dublin Boulevard near Foremost.

"Recycling is a way to help yourselves, your community and the cause," said Lois Hill, coordinator of the LCRC.

Both centers are open Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Materials accepted are:

- Glass and bottles: separate by colors (clear, green and amber) if you have time. Otherwise, recycling center workers will do that for you.
- Newspapers: no need to bundle them up, they have to be untied anyway. Do not stack magazines in with the papers; these cannot be recycled.
- Steel, aluminum and bimetal cans: remove the labels and flatten. Aluminum cans round bottoms and no seams; bimetal cans have ridged bottoms with side seams.
- Corrugated cardboard and brown paper bags.

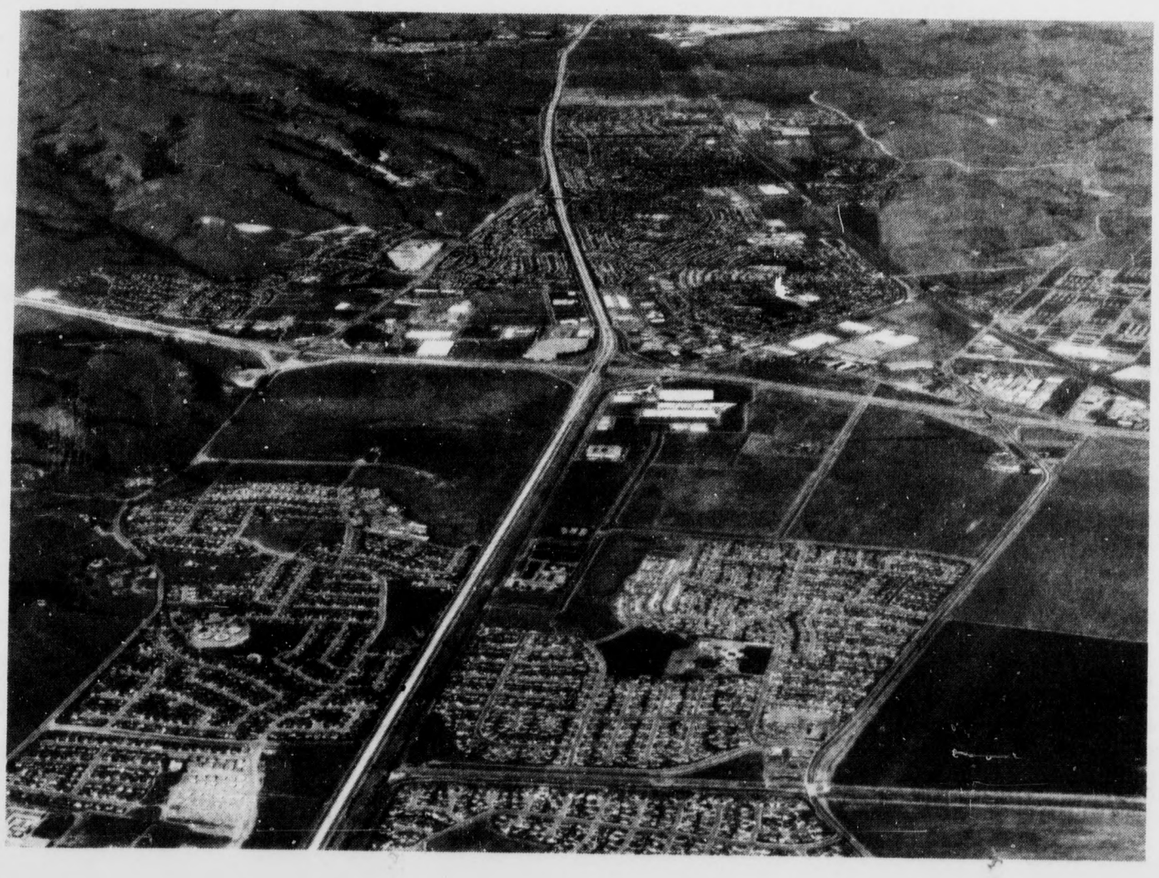

It doesn't take much to start a separation process at home. Clean the materials; toss them into separate boxes; store in the garage until you can bring them to the center.

If you don't have much room, toss all the products, except newspapers, into one box and workers at the center will separate them for you.

Under an arrangement with the Dublin Recycling Center, valley residents who wish to recycle motor oil may bring the used oil to the Union 76 Station on Santa Rita Road and Stanley Boulevard.

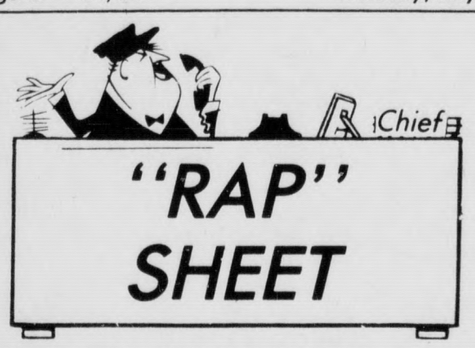

The LCRC will begin to accept motor oil at its location in the near future.

Recycling may save you money while it saves resources, and reduces waste and pollution.

The great vanishing routine

The expanse of "open space" that separates Pleasanton (foreground) from Dublin has been gradually disappearing, but at no where the near the speed at which Dublin and San Ramon are being melded into Danville as one great urban expanse. The Contra Costa portion of this basin is experiencing a building boom not unlike that which engulfed Pleasanton and Livermore in the "soaring sixties." Some 1600 residential units are now on the building boards for San Ramon Valley, with a half - dozen major builders focusing on that area, in part because of the "building freeze" that prevails in the Alameda County portion of the Valley.

Attempted assault thwarted as victim escapes

PLEASANTON — A 19-year-old woman escaped harm after a man hiding in the back seat of her car lunged at the woman as she attempted to park in the driveway of her Beech Court home early yesterday.

The woman told police she was driving home from work about 2 a.m. Tuesday and was pulling into the driveway of her home when a man suddenly rose up from the back seat and came at her. She escaped out the driver's side door and was not harmed, police report.

The suspect fled the scene, police said, and apparently left no clues to his identity. No other persons reported seeing or hearing the incident.

The woman described her would-be assailant as between 25 and 30 years old, about 6-feet tall, 190 pounds, brown hair, wearing a blue short sleeve shirt, blue or gray pants, and boots.

Police are continuing an investigation into the incident.

Suspect arrested after stolen property recovered

LIVERMORE — A man already in custody at city jail was booked on additional charges after an investigation uncovered nine bales of used cardboard boxes thought to be stolen at his home.

Anthony Maniz, 19, of 807 Keystone Way in Livermore was booked on suspicion of possession of stolen property, police said.

According to police reports, Maniz was in jail for failure to pay outstanding traffic tickets.

Detective Bill Bankert developed information that Maniz might be involved in the disappearance of bales of used cardboard boxes from several stores in the area. Bankert sought and was granted a search warrant to Maniz' home based on information he collected during the investigation.

Bankert, detective Dave Hollander and Maniz went to the suspect's mome where nine bales of flattened boxes were stacked in the driveway. Names on the boxes indicated that they belonged to Alpha Beta stores in Livermore, Pleasanton and Dublin, police reported.

Maniz allegedly admitted to police that he and a Hayward man had been stealing bales from stores in the valley and in Modesto for the past two or three months, police said.

A city truck and forklift transported the cardboard bales to the city corporation yard.

CB radio, 8-track unit taken from car

PLEASANTON — Burglars forced their way into a car parked on Sandalwood Drive early Tuesday and took $270 worth of citizen band and stereo gear, police reported.

Tommie Vincent Lukecart told police that special tools were required to remove the specially - mounted units. Missing items include a Kraco brand CB radio worth $135, and an 8-track/am-fm radio unit also valued at $135.

Police have clues in the theft.

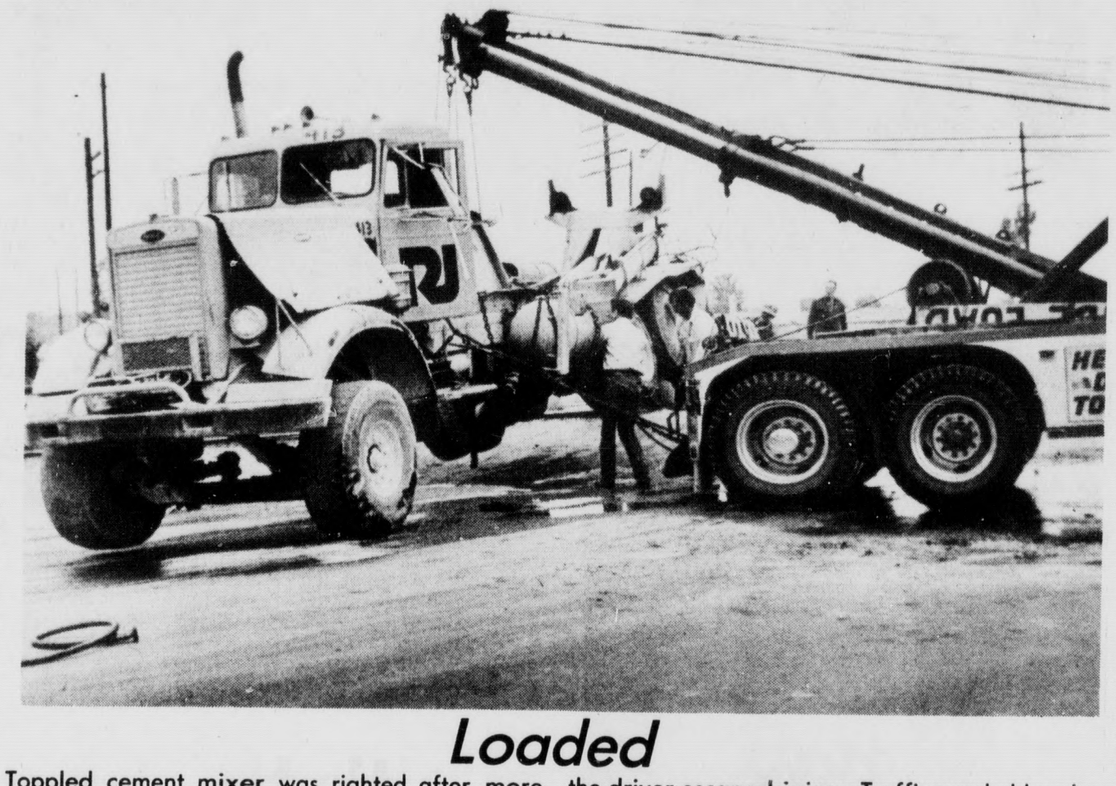

CB unit taken from car in apartment lot

LIVERMORE — Burglars apparently used a coat hanger to enter a car parked in a Chestnut Avenue apartment complex parking lot early Tuesday and stole a CB radio worth $200.

Police said the locked door to Brian Gerdes' car was forced open to get at the slide - mounted radio. The unit is a Teaberry brand, valued at $200.

There are no clues in the case.

Loaded

Toppled cement mixer was righted after more than two hours' work yesterday morning on East Stanley Boulevard, Livermore. Police said the liquid load of cement apparently shifted as driver John Pedro made a 5 mph turn out of the Rhodes - Jamieson quarry. The rig fell on its left side, but the driver escaped injury. Traffic was held up between 8 and 10:30 a.m. on the busy boulevard as the heavy truck was relieved of its cement - filled "bowl" and moved out of the way.

Youth Ranch gets grant

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The valley's Buenas Vidas Youth Ranch, built up from the abandoned hollow that was the Del Valle Tuberculosis Sanitorium on Arroyo Road, will get nearly $119,000 in federal and county funds to operate as a home for troubled, predelinquent youths.

County supervisors this week agreed to fund the project for one year with $107,000 in federal monies and $11,900 in matching county funds.

Chief county probation officer James Callahan argued for approval of the funding, claiming 168 youths who might otherwise become delinquent will use the sprawling facilities.

The former hospital, sitting on 119 acres in the rolling hills south of Livermore, was abandoned in 1960 and left to the wrath of weather and vandals.

State demanding waste plan

SACRAMENTO — Enough is too much, the State Solid Waste Management Board ruled this week, and the eight months leeway given 30 counties — including Alameda — to produce their specific solid waste plans will come to an abrupt end.

In Announcing a "get tough policy," chairman Alfred M. Dias said the 30 counties which missed the Jan. 1 deadline will have until Sept. 15 to file their state mandated plans. "Appropriate action" will be taken against delinquent counties, the board said.

A spokeswoman for the board said they have asked the State Attorney General's office for a legal opinion on the board's powers. "Appropriate action" could be fines or the state board writing the plan, she said, but the attorney general's office has not yet replied.

Counties have been working on the plans, which the state board says must call for the recovery of 25 per cent of the resources from solid waste by 1980, since 1973.

Alameda County's plan has been approved by nearly all cities, and service districts representing unincorporated areas.

Valley Community Services District and the City of Livermore have approved the plan, and Pleasanton is expected to accept it at the city council's next meeting. Newark has rejected it.

The plan must be approved by a majority of the cities representing a majority of the population in the county, county supervisors and the state board.

"Planning assistance to the counties by board staff was offered early in the program, and that offer still stands," Dias said.

Of the 28 plans submitted, the state board has accepted only 15 with the remainder "under various stages of review," said Dias' office.

Sierra Club takes aim at ranch

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The Sierra Club ended a seven-month silence this week by filing a 75-page brief in appellate court aimed at stopping William Apperson's proposed dude ranch in the hills neighboring Sunol Regional Park.

The environmentalists lost a lower court decision exactly one year ago, but immediately filed an appeal They spent the past seven months compiling their brief.

The suit name Apperson's Diamond A. Ranch and the county board of supervisors, who approved the project.

Apperson first proposed the 145-acre ranch some three years ago. He must now wait for the outcome of the appeal.

Plans call for cabins, tennis courts, equestrian center, health spa and hiking trails on that portion of his 2,500-acre spread just south of Pleasanton.

The appeal, which is not expected to be heard before January, says the plan does ot conform to the county's general plan and agricultural preserve uses. The environmentalists lost their case last year when superior court judge Lyle E. Cook ruled the board did not exceed its jurisdiction or ignore an environmental impact report.

The propoerty has been in the Apperson family for more than a century.

Budget looks brighter with new funds, cuts

PLEASANTON — Some new funding, a few budget cuts and the Amador High School District's financial outlook changed for the better at Tuesday night's board meeting.

The district scraped together some $186,000 in new reserve funds, which would make it possible to grant employes a 3 per cent raise. (Salaries are still being negotiated.) They cut some items from the $9.5 million budget, including:

— $10,303 for custodian and maintenance department uniforms;

— $23,623 for towel service in the intermediate schools;

— $7,988 for two Amador High portables;

— $5,000 from the early retirement program.

The board also awarded a bid to the Pete Hodgsin Construction Company of Redwood City to build an addition to the Amador High library.

Trustees chose the Educational Technology Corp. of Sacramento to provide a mobile trailer for the Regional Occupation Program (a valley - wide occupational training project for students and graduates) and agreed to ask for bids on ROP office equipment.

The total $46,000 in budget cuts was added to other new revenue including Senate Bill 1641 relief funds.

The district's income this year includes a beginning balance of $611,000; some $304,500 in federal funds; $2.7 million from the state; $5.6 million from local taxes and fees; $56,000 in county income; and $266,000 in tuition transfers.

Most of the money — some $6.8 million — is going for employe salaries and benefits.

The rest will be spent on books, supplies, utilities, upkeep, conference allowances ($24,400), and other expenses.

Croce assures Title IX policy compliance

LIVERMORE — The Livermore Unified School District won't be long in complying with federal anti - sexism regulations, Superintendent Leo Croce predicts.

Livermore has been lagging behind until now, while Pleasanton has been working for the past two years with compliance officer Karl Krause, also the district's personnel chief, and Murray has appointed curriculum coordinator Leo Schmitt to oversee their program.

"The board is supportive of efforts to end any discrimination, and I'm sure they will adopt a policy statement at one of the next board meetings," Croce said. Board members tabled a proposed anti - discrimination statement that was brought up June 29 because of objections from two board members, then postponed it again last Saturday. The statement is expected to turn up at the next regular board meeting, Aug. 3.

The federal regulations (which must be complied with if the district is to continue receiving some $1 million in federal funding) concern equality of opportunity for boy and girl students in classroom, sports and extracurricular programs.

"I think we're pretty well clear," Croce said, referring to industrial arts programs which are open to girls and homemaking courses to which boys are admitted.

Equal opportunity in sports programs is a bit more ticklish, but Croce feels the district is not far off the mark here either.

"PE is one area we want to look at," the superintendent said.

The proposed policy statement that will go before the board reads:

The Governing Board of the Livermore Valley Joint Unified School District affirms as its policy that it will not discriminate against any student, employee or applicant in practices or policies because of sex. It further affirms that no person shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subject to discrimination under any academic, extracurricular, occupational training or other program or activity operated by the district.

It will take action to assure that fair and equitable practices are adhered to according to the "Final Title IX Regulations Implementing the Education Amendments of 1972, Prohibiting Sex Discrimination in Education."

In addition the Board requires the individual full responsibility and cooperation from its employes in the implementation of compliance propedures.

All Alameda County school districts except Emeryville and Livermore already appointed compliance officers. In Livermore, the personnel director (who used to be Sterling Macfarlane; the position is currently vacant) will have that responsibility from now on.

According to Karl Krause of Pleasanton, his school district has been ahead of the game by complying with Title IX two years ago. The legislation was passed in 1972 and district self - evaluations on the regulations were due July 21.

Krause felt the federal paperwork involved fit in well with his duties as personnel officer, since he has all the information on hiring and salaries.

"We've tried to address ourselves to the problem before it becomes a problem," he said.

New clues surface in kidnap probe

CHOWCHILLA (AP) — As investigators follow his brother's trail in the Northwest, airtight security was arranged Wednesday for Richard Schoenfeld's arraignment in the abduction of 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver.

Heavily armed police officers will man roofs along the two blocks of Chowchilla's main street when Schoenfeld, 22, is flown into town Thursday morning for the arraignment.

Georgia Harry, a court clerk, said she's been swamped with calls from the townspeople and expects "probably the whole town" will come to the arraignment although the court holds only 48 spectators.

The FBI, meanwhile, reported Wednesday that a car believed to belong to Schoenfeld's 24-year-old brother, James Schoenfeld, was found by police in Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, on Wednesday.

Leslie Dieckman, FBI special agent in Spokane, said the car had the same license number as the one James Schoenfeld was driving when he twice attempted to get into Canada.

And in Reno, authorities said Wednesday they had taken a newspaper containing stories about the abduction from a trailer home believed to have been occupied by James Schoenfeld after the kidnap.

The Schoenfeld brothers and Frederick N. Woods IV, 24, were named in federal arrest warrants in the mass kidnaping. All are from wealthy San Francisco Peninsula families.

The older Schoenfeld brother and Woods have been the subjects of a nationwide manhunt which was concentrated on the Canadian border area after confirmed sightings of James Schoenfeld at border crossings in Idaho and Washington.

The younger Schoenfeld turned himself in last Friday and was scheduled to be arraigned Thursday on 43 counts of kidnaping and robbery. He has been held on $1 million bail at the jail in Alameda County east of San Francisco, about 100 miles northwest of Chowchilla.

Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates said that the younger Schoenfeld will be flown here to one of the local airports or private air strips just before court time. The arraignment is set for 10 a.m. local time at the new government building in this San Joaquin Valley town of 5,000.

Bates declined to say how many officers would be working on security but said Special Weapons and Tactics Team (SWAT) officers would be standing by and the majority of his officers would be handling traffic problems.

Bates said he will ask the judge to allow authorities to spirit Schoenfeld back to Alameda County immediately after arraignment on 27 counts of kidnaping and 16 counts of robbery.

He said he would have to do extensive reshuffling of his about 100 prisoners to meet state requirements that Schoenfeld not be kept with men already convicted or those charged only with misdemeanors.

Bates said he also wanted to avoid keeping Schoenfeld here because there were no singleman cells at the jail.

"Not that the other inmates would do anything to him, but I don't want to take chances," he said.

Schoenfeld's lawyers have said they would seek a change of venue for the trial and were expected to ask for a reduction in bail.

State assessors say house costs soaring

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The price of houses is soaring in California, while the value of commercial and industrial property is not, assessors said Wednesday.

The opinion was unanimous among assessors who appeared before the state Board of Equalization to protest the board's annual evaluation of their performance. One of the board's functions is to make sure that counties assess property on the same basis.

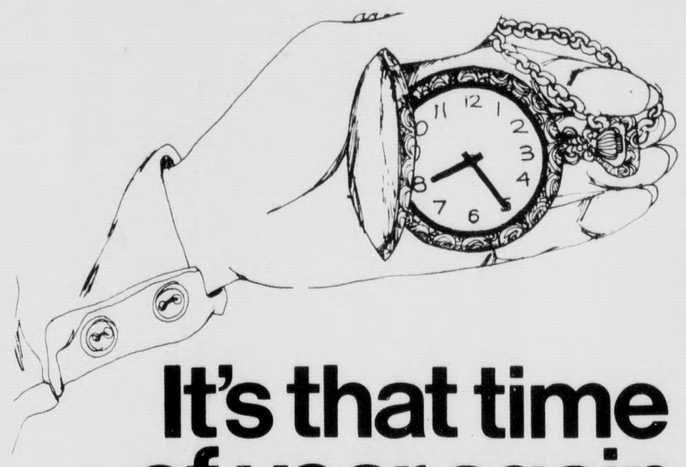

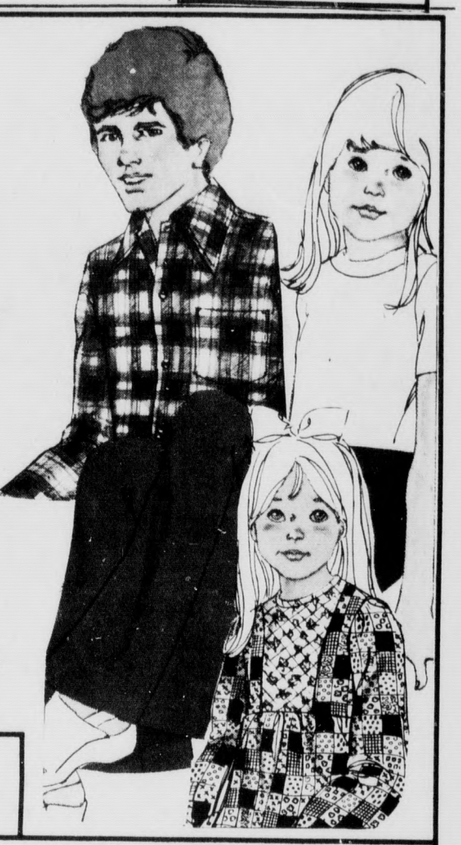

Fred Wanaka, assessor of Contra Costa County, said residential values were up 13 per cent last year in his area, while industrial commercial property showed no gain or dropped a little.

But Wanaka said the big increases in housing values were in affluent areas, "where the action is." Values didn't go up much in poor neighborhoods, he said.

Assessor Donald Stewart of Monterey Conty said he had boosted values of some houses by as much as 100 per cent, but still the state board said his assessments were the lowest in the state.

The assessors were appearing to protest the board's annual rating of how each county's assessments compare with the statutory requirement that they approach 25 per cent of "full value."

You can outsmart those bees in your backyard

Don't swat at those agressive bees buzzing around your picnic table! Your chances of hitting one are slim. All you'll be doing is inviting stings. Stings hurt and itch and if you are one of those people who react severely to bee venom, you many become dangerously ill. Trap the bees instead.

It is midsummer again and the time when more bees swarm aggressively around outdoor picnic tables and garbage areas than at any other time.

The reason? They are starving and are desperately seeking food. During spring and early summer there are flowers galore to supply nectar and pollen — the food they need, so the populations of the hives increase markedly. By mid-summer, flower numbers have declined. The result is more bees than food. They fly around until they smell something sweet — an open can of soft drink, or a cup of sugared tea or coffee on a picnic table, or a partially empty juice can in the garbage area.

Arthur J. Slater, pest control supervisor UC Berkeley, tells how to control the aggressive bees by using a trapping method he has devised. It is effective, safe, easy to use and ecologically sound. It can be used in public picnic areas as well as on home grounds. All you need is some soft drink and some clean gallon-size mustard jars made of yellow-colored plastic. The yellow color provides a long-range attraction.

One gallon-size container will cover a picnic area of approximately eight to 10 feet.

Wash the containers and put one or two inches of a sweet liquid in the bottom of each one. The bees will be attracted into the containers by the sweet liquid, then fall into it and drown. Translucent orange and orange-pineapple flavored mixtures diluted to roughly 10 per cent with additional water are very effective, whereas opaque cola solutions catch few bees. Do not use pesticides in these traps as they can be a hazard to children and pets.

Put the containers in out-of-the-way places —in planters, in perimeter areas and near sites which attract bees, such as soft-drink dispensers and refuse containers. A minor hazard exists from the drowned bees, so traps should not be placed in sites accessible to children and dogs.

Traps are easily maintained, as the only maintenance required is filtering the liquid through a large strainer to remove dead bees and adding water to replace evaporation losses. Traps should be serviced at least once a week and more often if necessary. It is not necessary to replace the soft drink until it sours and you can detect this by odor.

To reduce vandalism in public areas, it is important to label the jars with the name and phone number of the responsible individual or department and the words "do not remove."

If you have a yellow jacket or other wasp problem, the above trapping method may not be effective. You can trap them by a different method. Fit a funnel snugly into the opening of a one gallon can. Place bait, which can be small amounts of meat, fish or pet food, in the can. Set traps in direct sunlight Wasps will enter the cans and be killed by the heat.

A 'first' in prints

Karen Jenkins takes state fair honor

Karen Jenkins of Livermore has distinguished herself once again in the field of art by winning the first place in prints at the California State Fair Art Show 1976.

Her winning entry, an elegant, non-objective monoprint of handmade paper entitled "No. 8" — which she describes as "cloudlike forms" — brought her a $500 award and a gold medal. It was one of 320 chosen From among 3200 entries at the fair's art show.

Karen, a serious local artist, is a member of the Livermore Art Association. She works in handmade paper and her prize-winning monoprints are unique, sometimes expressing her humorous pique bordering on funky, at other times completely non-objective. A monoprint is the usual sense is a one-of-a-kind print which can be made by various techniques.

However, according to Ms. Jenkins, "You can't really define a print anymore. In my media a monoprint is a little bit different. It defies definition. When I look at my work I get a feeling from it, and I want the person looking at it to get some feeling from it too."

Currently Karen Jenkins participates in and draws her inspiration from a Tuesday afternoon discussion group of 10 or 12 professional artists whose prime purpose is the study of art Although not connected with the Livermore Art Association as an entity, most of the members coincidentally belong to the association.

The prize-winning artist grew up in San Bernardino. She always knew she would be an artist, always had a drawer in her home filled with art materials She came from a creative family, her aunt being an artist, her cousin an architect, her mother a creative seamstress who designed the family's clothes.

Karen's son, Doug, a kindergartener, was heard recently to remark to a gallery owner that he liked his mother's art work and wokld like to find a place to display it.

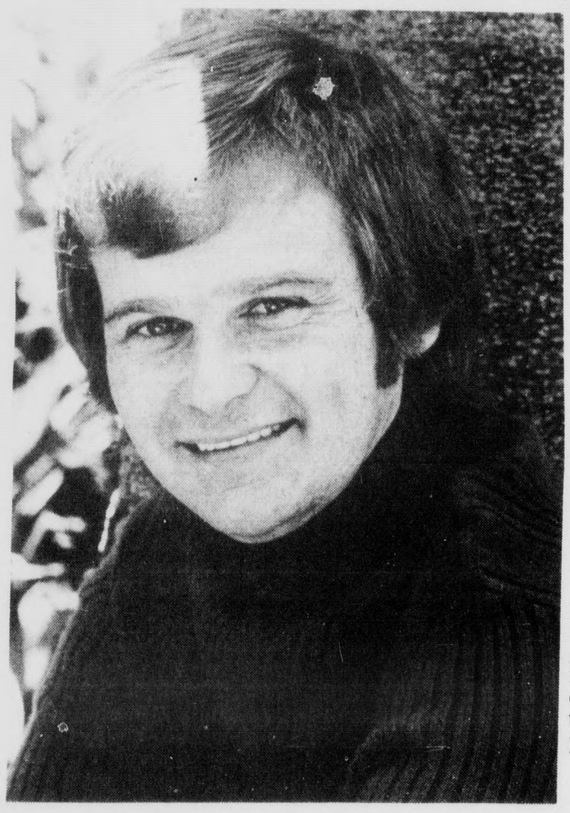

Karen's education consists of five years of study at San Diego State College. Later she received her bachelor of arts degree in art at Sacramento State College and did over two years of graduate work there.

She has won many prizes for her art work, including a recent second-place in the graphics division at the Lodi 16th Art Annual. Karen earned Best of Show honors at the Livermore Festival '74, and a second place and Best of Show at the Pleasanton Art League show in 1975. At the 1975 Livermore Art Association Spring Show she won first place.

This coming January Karen will display her monoprints are the Villa Montalvo Gallery at Saratoga.

Judges of the state fair art show at the Expo Center at Sacramento were Elmer Bischoff of U.C. Berkeley, Ron Nagle of U.C. Irvine, Connor Everts of U.C. Riverside, Ynez Johnston of Los Angeles, Russell Forester of San Diego, Ed Rossbach of U.C. Berkeley, Linda Connor of San Francisco Art Institute, and Ed Lund of Fresno State University.

The Livermore Senior Citizens will attend the opening performance Wednesday, Aug. 18. At age 61, Mr. Frick shows no signs of ending his career, and will give a full performance at the show's 41st edition.

By AL FISCHER

While summer plays at the Fallon House Theatre are a major lure, they represent just one of the attractions that add up to the "Columbia Experience."

Columbia is a rustic community above Sonora that trades largely on Columbia State Park, an historic area with restored places of business, museums, blacksmith shop, hotel and restaurants.

The entire Sierra foothills area is steeped in history as anyone knowing about Angels Camp, Jamestown, Murphys and Calaveras Big Trees will recall.

The Fallon House Theatre, a two-hour drive from the valley by way of Manteca, Escalon and Oakdale, is a monument to California's pioneer cultural spirit. Constructed in the early 1850s by Owen Fallon, his son, Jim, added the theatre, and Fallon House became the entertainment center of Columbia.

For the remainder of the 19th Century and on into the early 1900s, famous actors, singers and speakers performed at Fallon House.

But as the population moved toward major cities, the theater fell into disuse. After many years of inactivity, the University of the Pacific in Stockton purchased the grounds, and in 1945 deeded the property to the state.

A restoration program resulted in an authentic renewal of the Fallon House Theatre, and in 1949 it reopened. The Stockton school has provided resident theater companies every year since.

The company is alternating Oklahoma, Frankenstein, The Man Who Came to Dinner, Arsenic and Old Lace and Once Upon a Mattress in this, their 27th season.

We were fortunate to see the latter production last Friday night... as part of an SRO crowd, incidentally.

Advance reservations for the Friday and Saturday night performance are advised, though performances are presented nightly except Monday. "Mattress" will be presented Friday night, and "Lace" on Saturday and a Sunday matinee. The season runs through Saturday, Aug. 21. Reservations may be made by calling the Fallon House box office in Stockton between 12 and 3 p.m at (209) 946-2116 or the main office at the theater in Columbia at (209) 532-4644 between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. daily.

The theater has a small balcony and a low ceiling, a stage that is perhaps three-fourths of that at Amador High, but a very professional and talented young acting and backstage staff.

All have excellent voices and the costuming helps overcome the occasional fluff and the small stage.

"Once Upon a Mattress" or the story of the Princess and the Pea is a production that families with children will enjoy. Elizabeth Jacobs as Queen Aggravain is matchless as the over-possessive mother of Prince Dauntless, as played by Phil Sciaroni, a home-town collegian from Sonora.

The Queen is seeking a princess for her innocent little prince, all the while scheming to make sure no lovely prospect will pass the test. Jen Wolfe, from San Mateo, as Princess Winnifred-the-Woebegone, foils the Queen Mother and her 20 mattresses in the final scene. Miss Wolfe's characterization is excellent — and I couldn't help but think she would make a great Peppermint Patty or Lucy (of the comic strip "Peanuts").

Carson Miles is appropriately comical as King Sextimus the Silent, sprinting after the palace wenches when the overbearing queen is not around. The best voice is that of Steven Frazier, as Sir Harry, an aspiring Prince Valiant, and part-time wooer of Lady Larken, played by Donaday Garza.

Top-priced seats are $4 and $5.

But there's more to Columbia. You might try to arrive early and have dinner at Csarda, a Hungarian restaurant across the roadway from the theater, Columbia House (for more informal and lower-price dining), or the Sonora Hotel four miles below Columbia in Sonora. Stay away from the City Hotel Restaurant in Columbia unless you're ready to plunk down $8 to $10 per head.

For Thursday, July 29, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't let your attention wander today if you're attempting a hazardous task. Better to put if off for a day than to take risks.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Without realizing it, you could be arrogant today. If you come on too strong, you'll probably rub people the wrong way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Conditions at home will be a little more incendiary than usual today. If you watch what you say and do, you won't be the one to kindle the flame.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you do business today with those whose ethics are less honorable than your own, you'll lose out. They won't hesitate to cheat.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have some pretty extravagant tastes today. Better stay away from shops with the big price tags.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In situations where you should be assertive toay, you may tend to hold back. If boldness is called for, move in on things.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't make snide comments about a friend you're perturbed at. The problem will soon pass, but if he heard what you said, it's all over.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It would be a mistake today to try to manipulate people to serve your own ends. They'll quickly perceive your motives.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your image is rather fragile today. Chances are you'll be blamed for something you didn't do. Don't use that as an excuse to kick off the traces.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Although you may harbor many negative thoughts today, don't give in to them or you'll not even try to accomplish anything.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Partnership situations could be a very delicate area for you, even if you're dealing with allies of long standing. Tread cautiously.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't sidestep the tough decisions today. Face up to and handle them before they grow out of proportion.

The student went right up with dummy's ace of diamonds. Then he drew trumps with two leads and played a second diamond to dummy's queen and East's king. The nine of diamonds came back. Now the student ruffed a club before throwing East in with the last diamond.

East got out with a club and the game boat had sailed away. The student had to lose two heart tricks and his contract.

"Tough luck, wasn't it?" asked the student.

"Yes, but good play would have saved you. At trick two you should have ruffed a club, then a spade lead to dummy, ruff of another club, a second spade lead to ruff the last club and then you could have gone after the diamonds.

"East would collect his two diamond tricks, but then he would be stuck. If he led a club, South would get a ruff and a heart sluff to hold his heart losers to one. If he led the king of hearts, South would let it hold and he would either have to give that ruff and sluff or lead a second heart to dummy's ace, jack."

So as to forestall letters, the hand can also be made against a heart opening lead.

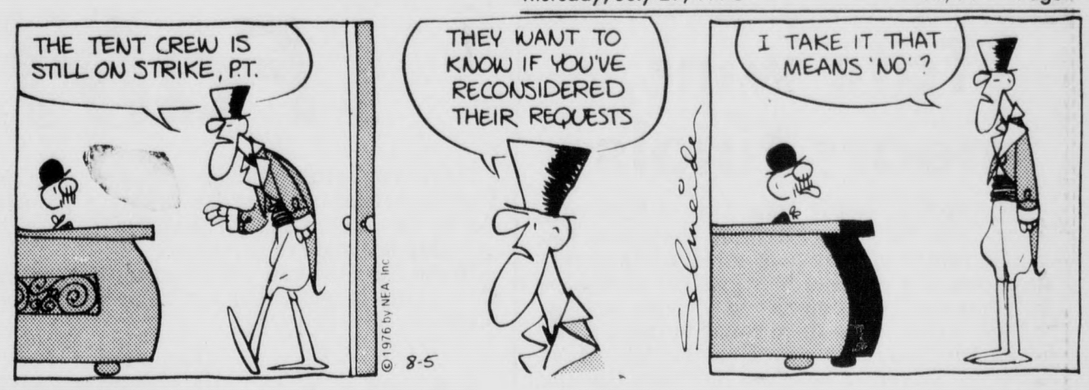

Ask the Jacobys

A Maine reader wants to know what the chance is that if you hold eight trumps, the opponents five trumps will split 3-2.

The answer to that one is that they split 3-2 about 68 per cent or just over two thirds of the time.

Tate wins, nears finals

MONTREAL — Big John Tate of Knoxville, Tenn., and defending Olympic champion Teofile Stevenson of Cuba took another step yesterday toward a possible heavyweight showdown with quarter-final victories in Olympic boxing.

Tate rallied in the third round to score a narrow 3-2 decision over West German Peter Hussing while Stevenson knocked out Pekka Ruokola of Finland in the first round.

In the Olympic medals standings, the Soviet Union has the most — 84, including 31 golds. The United STates and East Germany each have a total of 67 medals. The East Germans have won 30 golds; the AmeFicans, 22.

In an off-the-field development, Canadian immigration officials said Walter Lambertus, 21, a rower from Romania had defected and asked for permanent residency in Canada. Officials said his application would be dealt with in due course — which could be six months.

Track and field competition resumed after a one-day layoff.

Barbell Eckert of East Germany won a gold in the women's 200 meters, clocking 22.37 seconds. Annegret Richter of West Germany, the 100-meter champion, finished second. Renate Stecher, the defending 200 champion from East Germany was third.

Guy Drut gave France its first male track and field gold since 1956 with a 13.30-second victory in the 110-meter hurdles. Alejendro Casanas of Cuba was second, and four-time Olympian Willie Davenport of Baton Rouge, La., was third.

Rosemarie Ackermann of East Germany won the gold in the women's high-jump in an Olympic-record 6 feet 4 inches Sara Simeoni of Italy was second, and Yoradanka Blagoeva of Bulgaria third.

The Russians, led by Yuriy Syedekh's Olympic-record toss of 254 feet 4 inches, swept the hammer throw.

Stohr, Honour star at DVC

Ex-Granada High School athletes Kathy Honour and Diana Stohr came through with impressive performances in the Elk-A-Lympics at Diablo Valley College Tuesday night.

Honour came through with an outstanding leap of 17-5 to win the women's long jump and Stohr captured the 440-yard dash in 58.3.

Stohr finished third in the California State High School championships' 880-yard run with a 2:14.7 clocking. She will compete in the Junior Olympics Regionals Saturday in Reno.

One of the main attractions of the Elk-A-Lympics meet was the appearance of James Robinson, the ex-University of California middle distance runner and Olympics participant.

Robinson, who failed to make the finals of the 800-meter run at Montreal, won a impressive double at Diablo Valley. He breezed to a meet record time of 1:53.4 in the 880 and came back to take the 440 in 48.2, another meet record.

The former California great was the champion in the AAU 880 this season. He missed the finals at Montreal when he finished fifth in his heat, one hundredth of a second behind the fourth place finisher, who was the last qualifier.

Another outstanding athlete at the meet was Ed Miller, the NCAA decathlon champion from California. He set a meet record of 203 feet in the javelin.

San Jose to drop PCAA

SAN JOSE (AP) — The coming football season will be the last for San Jose State's Spartans in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

Dr. John H. Bunzel, SJS president, notified PCAA commissioner Jesse Hill and other conference schools by letters Tuesday of the decision he called "imperative to the future of our athletic program."

San Jose plans to double the capacity of its stadium to seat 37,000 and hopes to bring in major college teams.

The Spartans, one of the original PCAA members when the conference was formed eight years ago, will continue to participate in other PCAA sports, dropping only football in which it won the championship last season.

Fairfield takes title

Margaret Sutter pitched a two-hit shutout as Fairfisld rolled over North Stockton, 8-0 to win the Bobby Sox Major League District 53 All-Star championship last night in Livermore.

North Stockton had advanced to this championship game by defeating Livermore, 4-0 Tuesday night.

Shortstop Rhonda Clark sparked the Fairfield attack by stroking two hits, including an RBI triple. Karen Hough also had two hits, one of them a double. Tammi Wooten and Debbie Poole had one hit apiece, Poole scoring twice as Fairfield, with the aid of six North Stockton errors, ran up the score and coasted to an easy victory behind pitcher Sutter, who struck out 10 batters and did not walk any.

North Stockton's two hits were harmless singles by Maxion Vaughn and Shaunda Garcia.

North Stockton did not display the awesome attack it showed against Pleasanton and Livermore Tuesday night.

North Stockton routed Pleasanton 11-1, belting 13 hits in the process.

U.S. to change set-up?

MONTREAL — The East German Sports Factory is making an awesome sweep of those Olympic events which that nation chooses to enter, and a lot of Americans are asking, "Why not us?"

The answer is that the United States will never have the kind of state-regimented sports program of a Communist-ruled country. On the other hand, it could do a lot more with the resources at hand.

Mike Harrigan, executive director of the President's Commission on Olympic Sports, thinks there will be a lot of changes in the next few years in the way the United States approaches amateur sports.

Some of his suggestions:

— A national lottery once every four years could raise millions of dollars to develop and train Olympic athletes.

— A commemorative coin program like the one the Canadian government is running could yield needed money for training facilities.

— A modification of corporate tax laws would encourage big business to donate more money to sports and write it off as charity.

— Federal matching funds could be made available to states who put money into amateur sports.

— A federal excise tax on professional sports tickets could be a big money-raiser, and that is being studied.

Then there is the possibility of direct federal financing of amateur sports. Harrigan is leery of this because it also could mean federal control.

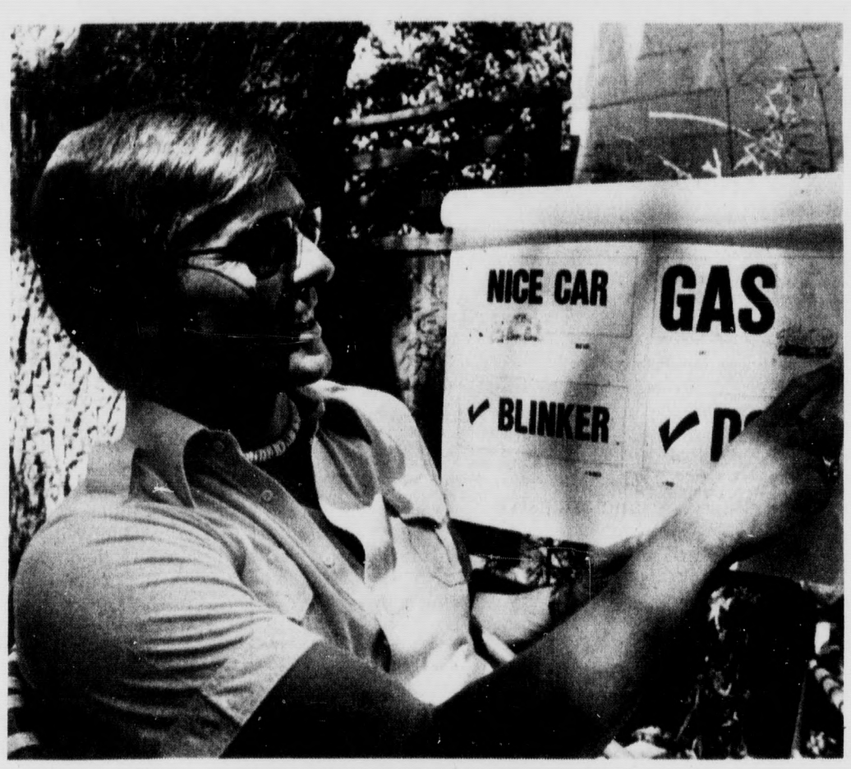

"We have to rely on our real strength, our private sector," he said. "This country spends an enormous amount of money on amateur sports at the local level."

One of the main problems, he said, is lack of coordination of efforts in sports medicine, research and new developments.

East Germany has put together a complex at Leipzig where the nation's research and development programs are centered. All over the country, there are training centers.

"The East German feat in rowing in this Olympics is the most incredible thing of all," Harrigan said. "They've won 11 of the 14 gold medals and they've won medals in the other three." Just as phenomenal was the East German sweep of the bobsled events in the Winter Olympics after only a year of preparation.

The President's Commission on Olympic Sports was set up not to duplicate what East Germany has done in the area of sports development, but to try to settle a lot of sticky problems among warring American amateur sports federations and to try and come up with ideas on how to make better use of the nation's far-flung but somewhat disorganized facilities.

Warrior star Rick Barry has many outside interests.

Barry ponders future, enters new business

What's it going to be.

Rick Barry can't make the decision just yet.

"I just don't know," said Barry, hoping to clamp down an answer within the next two weeks on which way to turn.

The Warrior's superstar says an answer will soon be made on whether to play one, two or no more years of basketball and focus on a broadcasting career with CBS as a sideline basketball commentator.

"I would imagine within the next two weeks that something will come out," continued the Alamo resident, who stays plenty active when not hitting 20 footers. "I'm still talking to television people. Whether I play one more year, or two, or none really remains to be seen.

"To put it in its proper perspective, to say I'll play one year is probably more of a possibility than not playing. Playing the second year is less than a possibility than my going into TV after one year," he said.

"It all depends on what happens," added Barry. "I've talked to the Warriors and to the television people. It all depends on what kind of answers I get from both as to what route I'm going to go. I'm just in the process of getting everything resolved right now."

Basketball and television aren't the only decisions the talented forward has been forced to make lately. He's currently involved with two business ventures aimed to aid society both financially and on the road.

Working from his office in Danville with two associates Hal Turner and Jim Schmidt, the three have come up with a traffic safety communicator program and a discount "Top of the Line" card.

"We felt that if you're fortunate enough to be able to do something in life, get a reputation and become some sort of celebrity that you may as well see if you can capitalize on it," explained Rick of the new business which opened last fall.

'I don't feel good about going out and trying to rip people off," he continued. "One of the greatest assets that I have is the value of my name. I guess it's being synonymous with success.

"I've been successful in my life with things that I've done and don't lend my name to a great many things unless I feel they're worthwhile. I really feel these programs are."

The traffic communicator is simply a self - contained card system that tells motorists of problems unseen. A card might tell the driver of an open door, a blinker left on, or about a tire ready to explode.

"I think, generally speaking, that people want to help out other motorists on the road," he said. "This is an easy way of doing it without looking like a fool on the road. It's unbelievable how well it works.

"It's for the safety and benefit of the people and not anything where you're ripping people off. It's a good sound investment."

On the other end of Rick Barry Associates is the Top of the Line Club, devised to save money for both the merchant and consumer.

"We think this is another good opportunity for everybody involved to save money," explained Barry. "This is something that benefits the person who gets the card. Everybody gets something out of it.

The card, ready to hit the market, allows the consumer discounts on products from participating merchants listed in a catalogue distributed by Barry's firm.

"It's not a one-sided operation where the only persons that benefit are the people in business," he continued. "This is something that benefits the person who gets the card, too.

St. Joes tops Pleasanton

SAN LEANDRO —After leading 25-22 at halftime the Pleasanton Dons dropped a 56-52 decision to St. Joseph last night at the Boys' Club here.

The loss dropped Pleasanton to 4-3 in summer action in the San Leandro Basketball League. St. Joseph is tied with Bishop O'Dowd for first place. Both teams have 6-1 records.

St. Joseph swished the nets for 20 points in the third period to pull away from the pons. The winners "slumped" to a 14-point total in the third period and Pleasanton added 18 but it was too late.

Mike Hansen and Sam Jorgensen each tallied 12 points to share high - point honors for Pleasanton. Don Hall and Chris DePrater each added nine.

Don mentor Skip Mohatt was not pleased with the team's play.

"We played very poorly, particularly on defense," he said bluntly.

The Dons tangle with Bishop O'Dowd Monday in another key contest.

Anderson eyes big year

Rex Anderson has set some high goals for himself in the next two seasons as a St. Mary's College football player.

"I'd like to make Little All-American," the former Livermore High School gridder admits. "However, right now I'm just looking forward to the start of the season. We open against Santa Clara there and we really want to beat them."

Anderson, a 1974 graduate of Livermore, played two years at College of the Siskyous in Weed, a member of the Golden Valley Conference.

He made All-GVC honorable mention last year as a offensive guard.

Rex is optimistic about his chances this season.

"I think I have a pretty good chance of making our first team," he said. "We don't have that many offensive lineman back. Also we only have three players back off last year's varsity."

Anderson didn't gain any All-East Bay Athletic League honors as a gridder at Livermore. He credits much of his improvement to his growth.

"When I was at Livermore I weighed about 200 and was about 5-10 or 5-11," he admitted. "My first year at junior college I was about 6-0 and weighed around 208 pounds. Now I'm about 220 and stand 6-1 1/2."

The former Poke also considers his speed to be a positive factor.

"I can run the 40-yard dash in about 4.9," he said. "My speed and strength are my best attributes."

St. Marys had a 3-8 record last season but despite the fact most of the first-stringers are gone Anderson is still optimistic about the team's chances.

"We have a high school All-American from Davis High School coming here," he commented.

The Gaels are starting an improved recruiting drive and the results of it could be seen as early as this season.

Particularly if an ex-Livermore High School player continues to show rapid improvement.

Tampa ready for opener

TAMPA, Fla. — It will be like a homecoming when John McKay takes his untested Tampa Bay Buccaneers to Los Angeles Saturday for the team's first exhibition game.

But on this trip to the Coliseum to play the Rams, McKay is the visitor. And the odds are against him.

"I'm going to be there — with apprehension We picked him up on waivers," he joked while putting his players through demanding twice - daily drills. "We're still undefeated."

McKay, 53, took over the helm of the National Football League expansion club axter an impressive 16 - year coaching career at the University of Southern California. He guided the Trojans to four national championships and a 127-40-8 record.

Now he comes back to his hometown as the boss of a group of NFL cast - offs, rookies, free agents and World Football League remnants who have never played together before.

And he has a string of injuries in key positions that's forcing him to do some shifting. Seven players are on the injured list, including three receivers, three running backs and a center. Some might see limited action.

After a long, hard month of practice, he said, the Bucs are as ready to play as they can be.

"WE've got some hard runners and we've blocked well at times. I assume when we open the regular season on Sept. 12 in Houston, we'll be a much, much better team," he said. "We don't do all this practice for nothing at all."

McKay is well aware of statistics that give an infant team a projected win record of 2.7 games during the first year.

But he's a teacher, a builder and an optimist.

"You really can't tell 'til after you see two or three exhibition games. But I feel very strongly at this time we'll do better than that," he said.

"If we win it, fine. If we lose it, it's not the end of the world. There are other things to do. If we win and come back to celebrate for a week, it's not going to do us any good in the record book."

McKay expects to do a lot of substituting in the Rams game.

"We'll be moving different players around in different situations, just looking at them," he said. "I'll be as busy as a one - armed paperhanger getting people in and out of the game."

It's all part of his over - all plan. He's drilled the Bucs on fundamentals, not to play a particular opponent.

"We may not be so sharp against any particular team," he said, adding that he's building for the future.

In fact, that was a main consideration in taking the job after turning down several other offers to join the pros. He wouldn't have gone with an established team, he said.

San Francisco signs free agents

SAN JOSE — With their offensive line depleted by four injured players, the San Francisco 49ers signed two free agents Wednesday — offensive guard Ralph Miller and offensive tackle Paul Sieler.

Miller, 6-4 and 255 pounds, was waived by the New York Giants. From Cal Lutheran, he played a year at Houston and two years in the Canadian League.

Sieler, 6-4 and 260, was a first-round National Football League draft choice of the New York Jets in 1967 and spent three seasons with the Oakland Raiders and the last two in the World Football League with the Southern California Sun.

The 49ers also switched rookie John Ayers, an eighth-round draft choice from West Texas State, to offensive tackle from defensive guard. Ayers played both positions in college.

Of the four offensive lineman sidelined — Cas Banaszek, Bill Reid, Keith Fahnhorst and John Watson — only Watson will suit up for Sunday's exhibition game in Seattle, and Watson is not likely to see any action.

Six Stanford gridders nailed

STANFORD (AP) — Suspensions have been given six Stanford University varsity athletes on charges of misconduct at a bachelor party May 19, including damaging fraternity house property and one incident of physical assault.

The penalties announced Tuesday by President Richard W. Lyman also were lighter than what was recommended by the Stanford Judicial Council June 23.

Given suspensions of one quarter, with the option of choosing which quarter of the coming academic year for serving the time, were football players Gary Anderson of Auburn, Mark Hill of Santa Clara, and Rich Waters of Hayward, and basketball player George Schader of Covina.

Farmers' comeback tops Jolly Liquors

A six-run inning in the fifth frame was the decisive margin as Farmers Insurance took a 12-8 decision over Jolly Liquors in Livermore Area Men's Recreation Softball action recently.
